

AT A GLANCE

Learning designs go beyond workshops

Even as more educators are experiencing job-embedded collaborative learning, the first thing many learners picture when they hear “PD Day” is a workshop.

Educator learning can encompass so much more! Explore the range of options below as you shape learning for specific outcomes.

	Engage in a cycle of inquiry with a team.		Participate in a Twitter chat.	Examine student data.
	Conduct action research.	Do a classroom or school walk-through.		Plan lessons with colleagues.
Shadow a student, teacher, or another professional.			Learn with the support of a coach.		Give presentations at conferences.
Participate in lesson study.		Write an article about your work.
	Video your own teaching.		Attend or lead webinars.
	Advocate for your profession.

Visit learningforward.org for information on all of these options and many more. The book Powerful Designs for Professional Learning will be a great start.