

Reflection questions

1. What successes and challenges has your district experienced selecting instructional materials?
2. How are you using federal funds to identify which data you will use to determine whether the professional learning opportunities provide evidence of the desired impact on educators and students?
3. How well did teachers and school leaders embrace and support the implementation of the materials?
4. How well did the instructional materials support improved student outcomes in your district?
5. Where are students or subgroups of students still needing additional support?
6. How do the student and teacher data you've collected and the reflections about prior selections inform your goals and decision-making process for upcoming selections?
