Participants created visual analogies to express how Standards for Professional Learning lead to improved outcomes.

Educators used visual analogies to find their own pathways to understand complex ideas.

Educators collaborated to make meaning of their new standards learning.

T-charts encouraged conversation around what standards look like and do not look like.